Organizing One-Week Workshop on

“Emerging Teaching Pedagogy in Management (January 16-22, 2019)”

This workshop will focus on emerging teaching Pedagogical Approaches in the field of management. In teaching new technologies are adapting to bring change in existing system for fulfilment of predetermined educational objectives. Earlier, books were the only source of instruction and individualized teaching. Today the type have expanded to include diversification modes like text books, Reference books, workbooks, magazines, booklets, comics, motion pictures, photographic slides, blended learning technologies, and Online Teaching. Research has proved that information and communication technology (ICT) can make the teaching learning process more effective and efficient. In higher education mostly lecture method is used by teachers. But there are many limitations. Other teaching methods like Constructive Methods, Demonstration, Discussion, Story Telling, Role Play, Visit, Project, Laboratory, Assignment, Quiz, Problem Solving, and audio/Video presentations are used by limited number of teachers and institutions. Thus, a new paradigm of teaching and learning is needed to increase 2 the pupil’s active participation, perception and cognitive development.
